Key investment risks

The value of investments, and the income from them, may fall or rise and investors may get back less than they invested. The price or value of investments may fluctuate significantly. The value of equities and bonds can be affected by factors such as stock market movements, interest rates, credit spreads and volatility. Other driving factors include political, economic news, company earnings and significant corporate events.

Risks related to the underlying funds. The below represent the main risks of investing in the underlying funds. For further information on the risks of the underlying funds, please refer to the prospectus and KIID of the underlying funds. The KIID for each fund is available, alongside the prospectus via the fund manager's website <https://global.vanguard.com/>. For third-party funds, please visit the respective provider's website.

Concentration risk. Investment risk is concentrated in specific sectors, countries, currencies or companies. This means the Fund is more sensitive to any localised economic, market, political or regulatory events.

Counterparty risk. The insolvency of any institutions providing services such as safekeeping of assets or acting as counterparty to derivatives or other instruments, may expose the Fund to financial loss.

Currency exchange risk. Movements in currency exchange rates can adversely affect the return of your investment.

Emerging markets risk. Emerging markets are generally more sensitive to economic and political conditions than developed markets. Other factors include greater 'Liquidity Risk', restrictions on investment or transfers of assets and failed/delayed delivery of securities or payments to the Fund.

Liquidity risk. Lower liquidity means there are insufficient buyers or sellers to allow the Fund to sell or buy investments readily. This could cause the Fund to incur higher costs when buying or selling investments or could mean that the Fund is not able to buy or sell investments when it would like to do so.

Model risk. This is the potential for errors in the model's design, incorrect inputs or misinterpretation of results.
